

It is always good to take time to reflect on what you have achieved or experienced in the year. As we come to the end of the academic year, it is a good time to look back and think about what you have achieved. By doing this, we can often remember things that we may have forgotten, challenges that we may have overcome, or achievements that we have forgotten. By looking back and remembering these things, we can use it as motivation to look forward, set new goals and help us achieve more and be the best versions of ourselves.

What was the favourite thing that you did this year both inside and outside school?

What did you find challenging this year that you are pleased you overcame?

What do you want to keep trying to improve both inside and outside of school?

What do you think you have got better at recently? What are you most proud of achieving over the last year both in school and outside?

Looking forward, what is it in the next few months or year, both in school and outside of school, that you are both excited about or looking forward to?
